My dad can't dance

Ladybird

● Four simple stories to help your child learn to read

About this book: My dad can't dance

Through a variety of writing and styles of illustration, My dad can't dance, shows your child how reading can be an entertaining adventure. This variety acknowledges that your child is developing his own tastes, preferences and reactions to what he reads. My diary features the days of the week.

How to use this book

As you read this book, talk to your child about what he likes or doesn't like about the stories and pictures. Does he find any of them particularly funny or sad? How would he feel if he had to move to a new town and a new school where he didn't know anyone? You could also take the opportunity to encourage your child to keep his own diary. This would enable him to practise his writing and spelling in an enjoyable and productive way. Notes on each story and rhyme can be found on pages 34–35.

My dad can't dance

written by Lorraine Horsley
illustrated by Julian Mosedale

My dad can't dance,

and my mum can't sing.

My brother can't paint,

and I can't do a thing.

My sister can't skip,

and the baby can't talk.

Our cat can't climb,

and our dog won't walk.

Grandad can't cook,

and Granny can't knit.

Their cat can't climb,

and their dog won't sit.

When you look at us,
it's plain to see,

we can't do much,
but we're a great family.

When I broke my leg

written by Catriona Macgregor
illustrated by Harmen van Straaten

When I broke my leg,
Lucy came round with
her friend from school.

When I broke my leg,
Sam came round
to watch TV.

When I broke my leg,
Ben came round with lots of comics.

When I broke my leg,
Gran came round with a great big cake.

It was great, when I broke my leg!

My diary

written by Shirley Jackson
illustrated by Dave McTaggart

Sunday

We went to our new house
in a new town.

I don't like it here.

Monday

I went to my new school.
I was on my own.

Tuesday

I made my first friend.
He is called James.

Wednesday

I helped my teacher
to put up my painting.
James put his up too.

Thursday

I made lots more friends.
I'm not on my own now.

Friday

Our class went swimming in the big pool.

I was the best swimmer.

Saturday

It was James's birthday.
I went to his party.
All our friends came too.
I really like my new town.

A rough ride home

written by Shirley Jackson
illustrated by Ant Parker

The car went up the hill,

over the hill,

down the hill fast.

The drinks were too fizzy.

The rides made me dizzy.

The car made me sick.

“Let me out. Quick!”

Learning to read with this book

My dad can't dance

Encourage your child to look at each picture and to read the words above it, with your help if necessary. Then re-read the whole story more fluently, enjoying the humour and the rhyme.

When I broke my leg

Look through the pictures and then encourage your child to read this story to you. Prompt any words he does not know by asking what he thinks the word is likely to be. Also talk about how the letters and their sounds help him to work out the word. Ask him to go back and re-read any sentence containing newly learnt or corrected words.

My diary

Help your child to read this story. Take time to enjoy the pictures together and talk about what's happening and how the writer is feeling. Encourage your child to write some entries in his own diary!

A rough ride home

Encourage your child to read this several times so that he memorises the rhyme and enjoys reading it with increasing fluency. Help him to notice the spelling patterns in the rhyming words:

f_{ast}

l_{ast}

f_{izzy}

d_{izzy}

Have fun making other words using these endings, such as 'blast', or building nonsense words like 'zizzy'.

New words

Encourage your child to use some of these new words in this list to make up his own stories and rhymes.

Go back to look at earlier books and their wordlists to practise other words.

Read with Ladybird

Read with Ladybird has been written to help you to help your child:

- to take the first steps in reading
- to improve early reading progress
- to gain confidence

Main Features

- Several stories and rhymes in each book

This means that there is not too much for you and your child to read in one go.

- Rhyme and rhythm

Read with Ladybird uses rhymes or stories with a rhythm to help your child to predict and memorise new words.

- Gradual introduction and repetition of key words

Read with Ladybird introduces and repeats the 100 most frequently used words in the English language.

- Compatible with school reading schemes

The key words that your child will learn are compatible with the word lists that are used in schools. This means that you can be confident that practising at home will support work done at school.

- Information pullout

Use this pullout to understand more about how you can use each story to help your child to learn to read.

But the most important feature of Read with Ladybird is for you and your child to have fun sharing the stories and rhymes with each other.
